Conclusion

- In summary, our analysis reveals several clear and actionable insights shaping the ID Juicer strategy. The recurring surge in sales at the beginning and end of the month confirms a direct correlation between customer purchasing behavior and typical pay cycles, emphasizing the need for focused promotional efforts during these periods.
 - While we observed a slight short-term challenge with November revenue lagging behind October by 3.83%, our foundational product strength remains solid. The Freshy Coconut line, particularly the classic Coconut Water, continues to dominate as our bestseller, with Kelapa Ijo also providing a significant revenue contribution.“
 - Crucially, the performance data identifies a clear growth priority: the very low revenue contribution from Dynamic Green indicates a significant lack of customer demand, warranting an immediate review of its placement or formulation. Finally, our established market presence is evident, with the Offline sales channel generating almost double the revenue of our Online channel, affirming the importance of our physical retail footprint as the primary engine of our business.
